Dear [REDACTED]

Re: Joint Urgent Appeal from Special Procedures Correspondence

We refer to the United Nations Human Rights Commission Special Procedures Branch (Special Procedures Branch) letter titled 'JOINT URGENT APPEAL FROM SPECIAL PROCEDURES' which was received by bureau^proberts on 28 April 2023.

We thank you for the opportunity to respond to its contents and drawing our attention to the issues identified within.

We acknowledge that our company has been identified in the public domain in relation to work in the design of cultural and development assets in Saudi Arabia.

bureau^proberts is an Australian based architecture and design company with offices located in Australia and London. We work on a diverse range of cultural and development projects in Australia and internationally, and our projects have been recognised and published in local and international architectural awards programmes and publications.

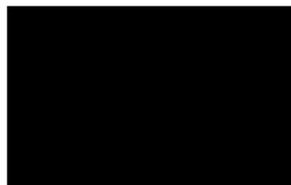

bureau^proberts is committed to conducting themselves in a professional and respectful manner in all business dealings. and in compliance with the guidelines and obligations of the Australian Government when working both domestically and internationally.

bureau^proberts is also committed to the requirements of Australian employment and company regulations. These guidelines and requirements hold bureau^proberts and its employees to a high standard, which we work to maintain at all times.

In relation to the letter received from the Special Procedures Branch, we confirm that bureau^proberts has taken the following actions in response:

- notified the Australian Government that we have received this correspondence; and
- moved to advise our employees of our response and of our commitment to remaining in compliance with both domestic and international obligations.

Yours faithfully

Managing Director
