

Mandates of the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights defenders; the Special Rapporteur on the human rights of migrants and the Special Rapporteur on trafficking in persons, especially women and children

Ref.: AL LBY 2/2025
(Please use this reference in your reply)

15 October 2025

Excellency,

We have the honour to address you in our capacities as Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights defenders; Special Rapporteur on the human rights of migrants and Special Rapporteur on trafficking in persons, especially women and children, pursuant to Human Rights Council resolutions 52/4, 52/20 and 53/9.

In this connection, we would like to bring to the attention of your Excellency's Government information we have received concerning the gunfire attack on the Ocean Viking search and rescue vessel by the Libyan Coast Guard on 24 August 2025.

The Ocean Viking is a search and rescue vessel operated by the French organisation SOS Méditerranée. SOS Méditerranée has been operating search and rescue vessels in the Central Mediterranean since 2016, and the Ocean Viking since 2019.

Grave concerns as to a pattern of gross human rights violations committed against migrants, refugees and asylum seekers by multiple parties in Libya, including the Libyan Coast Guard, were communicated to your Excellency's Government in reports from November 2021 (A/HRC/48/83), June 2022 (A/HRC/50/63), August 2022 (A/HRC/49/4) and March 2023 (A/HRC/52/83) by the Independent Fact-Finding Mission on Libya (FFM). Such concerns have since been reiterated and shared with your Excellency's Government in reports of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights dated 3 June 2024 (A/HRC/56/70) and 23 July 2025 (A/HRC/60/82).

Concerns about the alleged detention and ill-treatment of human rights defenders providing assistance to migrants, refugees and asylum seekers, as well as attacks against them, were previously communicated to your Excellency's Government by Special Procedures mandate holders on 17 August 2022 (LBY 6/2022). We regret not receiving a reply to this communication. Similar concerns were also shared in the report of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights dated 23 July 2025 (A/HRC/60/82).

According to the information received:

In 2017, Libya and Italy agreed a Memorandum of Understanding on cooperation in the fields of development, the fight against illegal immigration, human trafficking, fuel smuggling and reinforcing the security of borders between the State of Libya and the Italian Republic.

At 2.09 a.m. on 24 August 2025, the Ocean Viking rescued 47 persons in distress in international waters in the Libyan Search and Rescue Region of the Central Mediterranean. The rescue was reportedly carried out keeping all relevant maritime authorities informed of each step of the operation. The Italian Maritime Rescue Coordination Centre (ITMRCC) subsequently assigned Marina di Carrara as a place of safety for disembarkation of the rescued persons, approximately 1,300 km and three and a half days sailing from the ship's location at the time. The Italian authorities thereafter authorized the Ocean Viking to deviate from its course to the assigned place of safety in order to carry out a second rescue operation on the same day, during which 40 persons in distress at sea were rescued, and again in order to search for a third boat in distress in international waters in the Central Mediterranean.

At 2.45 p.m. on the same day, the Ocean Viking crew spotted a boat on the horizon approaching the ship at sea. At 2.58 p.m., the Ocean Viking made radio contact with this boat – a Libyan Coast Guard Corrubia-class patrol vessel, Houn 664, donated by Italy to the Libyan authorities in 2023 as part of the European Union's Support to Integrated Border and Migration Management in Libya (SIBMMIL) program, for which the Italian Ministry of Interior is the partner. The Libyan Coast Guard reportedly shouted at the Ocean Viking crew via the radio, telling them to “go north”. In response, the Ocean Viking crew explained that they were conducting a rescue mission in coordination with the ITMRCC and the Joint Rescue Coordination Centre in Tripoli.

At 3.02 p.m., they had a similar exchange, with the same message communicated by the Ocean Viking in Arabic. However, the ship subsequently informed the Libyan Coast Guard that they had changed course and were heading north. Immediately after having shared this information, gunshots were fired from the Libyan Coast Guard boat at the Ocean Viking, reportedly with no warning given. The Ocean Viking continued to change its course to head north.

At 3.05 p.m., while informing the ITMRCC of the shooting and asking them to intervene with the authorities in Tripoli, the Ocean Viking was shot at again from the Libyan Coast Guard boat. At this point, while speaking with the ITMRCC, the Search and Rescue Coordinator aboard the Ocean Viking issued a mayday call and informed the IMRCC that the windows on the bridge of the Ocean Viking have been shattered by the gunfire. At 3.08 p.m., as the Libyan Coast Guard continued to shoot at the Ocean Viking, the ship issued another mayday call.

At 3.09 p.m., the Ocean Viking asked the Libyan Coast Guard boat to stop shooting and told them that they were leaving the area. The shooting nonetheless continued, and the Libyan Coast Guard threatened to increase their fire. At 3.12 p.m., the Ocean Viking repeated its message to the Libyan Coast Guard both in Arabic and English. The Libyan Coast Guard responded by continuing to shoot and threatening the Arabic-speaking member of the Ocean Viking crew.

At 3.14 p.m., the Ocean Viking contacted the ITMRCC, who informed the Ocean Viking that they were not in contact with the authorities in Tripoli, and told the crew to contact their flag state. While this conversation was happening, the Libyan Coast Guard continued to shoot at the Ocean Viking. At 3.15 p.m., the captain of the Ocean Viking was threatened by the Libyan Coast Guard after speaking with them in English. They insulted him, calling him a “dog” and an “animal”, and warned that they would shoot him unless he spoke in Arabic. The Libyan Coast Guard then ordered the Ocean Viking to stop their engine, and threatened the ship, saying they would return in an hour and sink them. By 3.24 p.m., the Libyan Coast Guard boat had left the area, heading south.

As a result of the gunfire from the Libyan Coast Guard boat, four windows on the bridge of the Ocean Viking were shattered, four of the ship's rescue boats (RHIBs) destroyed, and communication, navigation and search and rescue equipment damaged. The ship itself was left with more than 100 bullet holes, including form shots fired at head height and aimed directly at the bridge.

Following the attack, the Ocean Viking informed the ITMRCC that the Libyan Coast Guard boat had left, and that they intended to proceed towards the port of Marina di Carrara. They subsequently informed NATO Operation Sea Guardian of the incident and requested an escort for the safety of the ship and those onboard. They were advised by the NATO crew to contact the Italian Navy, which they reportedly attempted to do four times without success. At 4.52 p.m., the Ocean Viking made three attempts to contact the European Union Naval Force Mediterranean Operation Iriini (EUNAVFOR MED) via satellite phone, to ask for an escort, but could not make contact with them.

At 4.56 p.m., the Ocean Viking contacted the ITMRCC and asked them to contact the Italian Navy to organise an escort for the Ocean Viking. In response, the ITMRCC told the Ocean Viking that they should contact the ship's flag State. At 5.32 p.m., the Ocean Viking contacted the ITMRCC, the flag State, the Malta Rescue Coordination Centre, the Italian Navy, NATO and Frontex by email, informing them of the damage sustained to the ship as a result of the shooting by the Libyan Coast Guard and requesting a closer place of safety for disembarkation of the rescued people on board.

At 11.50 p.m., the Ocean Viking followed up on its initial email with photographic evidence of the damage sustained in the shooting by the Libyan Coast Guard. The ITMRCC subsequently confirmed Siracusa as a place of safety for disembarkation. This was subsequently changed to the port of Augusta, where disembarkation took place on the evening of 25 August 2025.

This incident is allegedly not the first attack of the Libyan Coast Guard on the Ocean Viking. In July 2023, a similar attack occurred, when a Libyan Coast Guard boat, donated through the SIBMMIL programme, fired gunshots in the vicinity of two of the Ocean Viking's RHIBs during a rescue operation.

We express our grave concern at the alleged attack on the Ocean Viking. We note that the above-detailed allegations are supported by video, audio and photograph evidence, and underline our serious fear that the attack, which strongly appears to have put the Ocean Viking crew members – who are human rights defenders – and the 87 persons on-board who were rescued at sea in extreme jeopardy, may have been a deliberate attempt to prevent the life-saving work of the crew. We further underline our concern that the attack appears to be directly connected to gross human rights violations committed by the Libyan authorities, including the Libyan Coast Guard, against migrants, refugees and asylum seekers.

Our concerns in this regard are further documented in the above-referenced reports of the FFM, which have been communicated to your Excellency's Government.

In its 2021 report (A/HRC/48/83), the FFM found that “since the inception of boat pullbacks in the Mediterranean Sea, Libyan authorities have been on notice regarding the widespread and systematic nature of the reckless interceptions at sea and the abuses within the centres. Rather than investigating incidents and reforming practices, the Libyan authorities have continued with interception and detention of migrants. The absence of accountability for abuses against migrants evidences a State policy encouraging the deterrence of sea crossings, extortion against migrants in detention, and subjection to violence and discrimination. Militias (some of which manage detention centres), criminal networks, traffickers and smugglers contribute to the implementation of this policy.” (para. 60). The FFM considered at the time that this provided “reasonable grounds to believe that acts of murder, enslavement, torture, imprisonment, rape, persecution and other inhumane acts committed against migrants form[ed] part of a systematic and widespread attack directed at this population, in furtherance of a State policy” and that as such, “these acts may amount to crimes against humanity.” (para. 61).

In another report (A/HRC/50/63) from June 2022, the FFM stated its continued investigations “provided a strong basis to confirm that acts of murder, enslavement, torture, imprisonment, rape, and other inhumane acts are committed against migrants” and “that little has been done by Libyan authorities to reform their practices and address these crimes...” (para. 70).

In a third report (A/HRC/49/4) from August 2022, the FFM found that, in spite of the Mission's previously published findings, the Libyan authorities had continued to detain migrants, including those intercepted at sea.

In its final report (A/HRC/52/83) from March 2023, the FFM found reasonable grounds to believe that high-ranking staff of the Libyan Coast Guard colluded with traffickers and smugglers, reportedly connected to militia groups, in the context of the interception of migrants and their deprivation of liberty (para. 44). The FFM further found Libyan authorities, including the Libyan Coast Guard, had been on notice as to the widespread human rights violations and possible crimes against humanity being committed against migrants in Libya, but that “nonetheless, in accordance with memorandums of understanding between Libya and third States, the Libyan authorities have continued their policy of intercepting and returning migrants to Libya, where their mistreatment resumes.” (para. 46). The FFM recommended that the Libyan authorities “end the criminalization of irregular entry and stay of migrants in Libya and immediately release arbitrarily detained migrants...” and “investigate and prosecute individuals allegedly responsible for violations and abuses of international humanitarian and human rights law and domestic criminal law, in accordance with due process guarantees and the principle of legality.” (para. 102, f and a).

In connection with the above alleged facts and concerns, please refer to the Annex on Reference to international human rights law attached to this letter which cites international human rights instruments and standards relevant to these allegations.

As it is our responsibility, under the mandates provided to us by the Human Rights Council, to seek to clarify all cases brought to our attention, we would be grateful for your observations on the following matters:

1. Please provide any additional information and/or comment(s) you may have on the above-mentioned allegations.
2. Please provide information as to any investigation and prosecutions of alleged perpetrators which may have been initiated concerning the above-detailed attack on the Ocean Viking by the Libyan Coast Guard. If no such investigation has been carried out, please explain why, and how the lack of an investigation is compatible with Libya's obligations under international human rights law (see Annex).
3. Please provide information as to the measures taken to ensure respect for human rights, in particular the rights of migrants, refugees and asylum seekers, by the Libyan Coast Guard in the performance of its duties.
4. Please explain how the actions of the Libyan Coast Guard fit in the context of the Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with Italy, and how this MoU ensures the protection of the against migrants, refugees and asylum seekers.
5. Please provide information as to the steps taken to implement the recommendations addressed to Libya by the FFM. If no steps have been taken, please provide reasons for this.

This communication and any response received from your Excellency's Government will be made public via the communications reporting website within 60 days. They will also subsequently be made available in the usual report to be presented to the Human Rights Council.

While awaiting a reply, we urge that all necessary interim measures be taken to halt the alleged violations and prevent their re-occurrence and in the event that the investigations support or suggest the allegations to be correct, to ensure the accountability of any person(s) responsible for the alleged violations.

We may publicly express our concerns in the near future as, in our view, the information upon which the press release will be based is sufficiently reliable to indicate a matter warranting immediate attention. We also believe that the wider public should be alerted to the potential implications of the above-mentioned allegations. The press release will indicate that we have been in contact with your Excellency's Government's to clarify the issue/s in question.

Please be informed that a letter on this subject matter has also been sent to Italy and the European Union.

Please accept, Excellency, the assurances of our highest consideration.

Mary Lawlor
Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights defenders

Gehad Madi
Special Rapporteur on the human rights of migrants

Siobhán Mullally
Special Rapporteur on trafficking in persons, especially women and children

Annex

Reference to international human rights law

In connection with above alleged facts and concerns, we would like to draw the attention of your Excellency's Government to articles 6 and 9 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR), acceded to by Libya on 15 May 1970, which guarantee the right to life and security of the person of every individual.

Article 6(1) of the ICCPR guarantees the right to life. The Human Rights Committee, in its general comment No. 36 (CCPR/C/GC/36), stressed that the obligations upon States parties to the ICCPR arising from article 6(1) include a duty to take positive measures to protect the right to life (para. 21). The Committee further emphasized that the duty to protect the right to life requires States parties to take special measures to protect persons in vulnerable situations whose lives have been placed at particular risk because of specific threats or pre-existing patterns of violence. As held by the Human Rights Committee, this includes human rights defenders, displaced persons, asylum seekers, refugees and stateless persons (para. 23). Moreover, the Human Rights Committee's general comment No. 36 (para. 27) underlines that an important element of the protection afforded to the right to life by the Covenant is the obligation on the States parties, where they know or should have known of potentially unlawful deprivations of life, to investigate and, where appropriate, prosecute the perpetrators of such incidents, including incidents involving allegations of excessive use of force with lethal consequences, and that the duty to investigate also arises in circumstances in which a serious risk of deprivation of life was caused by the use of potentially lethal force, even if the risk did not materialize.

Article 9 of the ICCPR enshrines the right to liberty and security of person. The right to security of person refers to protection against physical or psychological injury, or attacks on physical and moral integrity, and obliges State parties to take appropriate measures to protect individuals from foreseeable threats to their life or physical integrity from any State or non-State actor. As the Human Rights Committee has underlined, in its general comment No. 35 (CCPR/C/GC/35) States parties should respond appropriately to patterns of violence against certain categories of victims, such as intimidation of human rights defenders, and should take appropriate measures to protect the victims of such violence (para. 9).

We would also like to refer your Excellency's Government to the fundamental principles set forth in the Declaration on the Right and Responsibility of Individuals, Groups and Organs of Society to Promote and Protect Universally Recognized Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, also known as the UN Declaration on Human Rights Defenders. In particular, we would like to refer to articles 1 and 2 of the Declaration which state that everyone has the right to promote and to strive for the protection and realization of human rights and fundamental freedoms at the national and international levels and that each State has a prime responsibility and duty to protect, promote and implement all human rights and fundamental freedoms.

We would further like to bring to the attention of your Excellency' Government article 12 of the Declaration, and in particular paragraphs 2 and 3, which provide that the State shall take all necessary measures to ensure the protection of everyone against any violence, threats, retaliation, de facto or de jure adverse discrimination, pressure or any other arbitrary action as a consequence of his or her legitimate exercise of the rights referred to in the Declaration.

Finally, we would like to make reference to the recommendations made in the recent report of the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights defenders to the UN General Assembly (A/77/178), on the situation of defenders of the rights of refugees, migrants and asylum seekers. In particular, we wish to underline her key recommendation that States should publicly promote the lifesaving work of defenders working on these issues; intervene to stop them from being attacked, desist from targeting them; and provide a safe, accessible and supportive environment for their work, both in law and in practice.